A National Event

The holding of the World's Fair in a city scarcely fifty years old will be a remarkable event, but whether it will really benefit this nation as much as the discovery of the Restorative Nervine by Dr. Franklin Miles is doubtful. This is just what the American people need to cure their sleeplessness, neuralgia, nervous debility, dullness, confusion of mind, etc. It acts like a charm. Trial bottles and fine book on "Nervous and Heart Diseases," with unequalled testimonials, free at H. C. Richer & Co's. I is warranted to contain no opium or dangerous drugs.

Bought Cheap.

One of the largest purchases made in Waco for some months was the purchase on Tuesday of the entire stock of wagons and agricultural implements of S. A. Owens & Son, sold by the United States marshal to the highest bidder. Mr. W. E. Dupree was the purchaser for spot cash at a very low price. This big stock added to his own, makes the biggest stock of agricultural implements in Central Texas at his great houses, 101 and 105 Bridge street. His big stock embraces all the popular brands of wagons, plows, cultivators, corn and cotton planters and everything else in the agricultural implement line. His late purchase gives him a big lever in prices and Dupree's agricultural house is the best place to buy farmers' goods in the state.

THE NEWS, in improving its outfit, has just purchased from Taylor & Campbell of Chicago, a new process for printing in various colors with one impression. This process was invented by Mr. F. C. Taylor and is being used by all the leading newspapers and job printing establishments in the United States. Never before in the history of printing has any one been able to devise a means of distributing different colored inks on rollers without ruining them all together. This process for Waco and four adjoining counties is now owned by THE NEWS PUBLISHING COMPANY and is being used in THE NEWS job office. The public is invited to call and see it.

IS IT ALL A DREAM?

A WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT'S SENSATIONAL STORY.

Two Democratic Presidential Candidates—The Party May Split on the Free Coinage Measure—Another Force Bill in the Dim and Shadowy Distance.

NEW YORK, March 21.—The Washington correspondent of the Herald sends his paper a story, in which he raises the question as to whether there may not be two Democratic candidates this year. The writer thinks and says it is not unlikely, owing to differences on the silver and tariff. Then the dispatch runs on this way: "The gentlemen who favor this policy, whose judgment will give intelligent direction to the movement, and whose private wealth will furnish to a great extent the sinews of war, are terribly in earnest regarding this matter. During the interim between now and the meeting of the national convention at Chicago the proposition will be quietly discussed among them, and letters and circulars will be sent out to the sound money Democrats, particularly in New England and the middle and western states inviting their co-operation with this movement in the event that, by the action of the Chicago convention, it shall become necessary. So far very little has been said to indicate the intensity of feeling beneath the surface."

"Some of the New York Democrats are particularly angry at what they call the pigheadedness of their southern and western colleagues. The feeling of resentment among the Tammany representatives is very strong. I should not be surprised if a sensation occurred in the house within a short time. I know of one representative who is fuming and fretting and he threatens that unless the situation mends he will jump into the ring some morning and score the southern Democrats for their suicidal methods as evidenced by their action on the free silver and tariff questions. Such a speech would carry dismay to the party and bring down upon the heads of the offenders the curse of the Democrats all over the country."

"This man is one of the leaders of the New York Democratic representatives. My interview with him was almost dramatic. I asked him a simple question about the political situation and was surprised at the amount of feeling displayed in the answer."

"Right after the war," he exclaimed "these southern men threw up their arms in despair and begged the northern Democrats to come to their rescue. We came, lifted our southern brother from the despondency which naturally resulted from his secession and we put him in the house and in the United States senate."

"Then the southern Democrats elected a Democratic president. He listened to the southern statesmen, and with all the zeal of a convert plunged us into a tariff fight. We could not re-elect him. The introduction of the force bill followed, and again the southern Democrats beseeched us to save them. Again we did it. Three months ago we had ninety-nine chances out of a hundred of electing a Democratic president, not on the tariff issue, but on the force bill issue, the hard money issue and the issue of economy in government appropriations. On this we could have fought and won."

"But no; the southern Democrats must insist that we pass a sweeping tariff bill for a record. Why, we got the record. They insist on wasting time over a lot of tariff measures that they know never can become laws and are disgusting the people by a useless waste of time."

"The house is no longer a legislative body—it is a mere debating club; and now our southern friends have the free silver craze. We tell them, but we speak in vain, that if a free silver bill is passed no Democrat can carry an eastern state; they will not believe it and they are just ruining our chances of electing a president this fall. It is suicide for them and we have that satisfaction. Another force bill will surely be introduced and if the Republicans triumph this year it will become a law. Again will the southern Democrats appeal to the north, but the next time, by their repeated follies, we will be powerless and unwilling to aid them. I am almost afraid to go into the house, for I see the danger into which we are drifting, and I fear lest indignation get the better of my prudence and that I will say these things in open session. I am a Democrat, but some one must read the riot act to the men who are running the prospects of the party, unless we enter again into a wilderness into which we will wander for many years."

"The placing of two Democratic presidential tickets in the field this summer would undoubtedly result in throwing the election into the house. The Alliance people expect to carry no fewer than eight states. While this may be an exaggeration, it is quite reasonable to expect they may carry half that number. The effect of this will be to complicate the situation and make it still more certain that no one of the quartette of candidates will secure a majority of the electoral votes. The interesting question then arises, what action the house will take. It opens the door to a flood of interesting speculations."

Mr. Garwood's bill fixing liability of receivers and contractors in injury resulting in death, passed.

Hill's Silver Views.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Hill's continued silence on the silver question is gradually being accepted as an indication he is opposed to the free coinage of silver. People who favored Hill at first thought it meant that he would accept the Democratic platform whatever it may be, but it is now asserted he has finally determined he must oppose free coinage. A prominent silver advocate in the house who has been a Hill man says he has been called on by representatives of Hill and informed by authority that if the house passes the free silver bill Hill cannot be a candidate.

YOUTH.

Why is it so many grow old too prematurely?

Said an old man: "If there is anything that will make an old man feel young it is Dr. John Bull's Sarsaparilla." Yes, there is a deal of buoyancy in a bottle of this excellent remedy, and if it was more generally used there would be fewer folks growing prematurely old. The healing and strengthening herbs that enter into its composition make it one of the finest rejuvenating medicines that can be compounded. Said a young wife, when asked how she managed to live so happily with her husband, who was quite an old man, "I keep him youthful by giving him Bull's Sarsaparilla." It is a good thing when a feeling of old age or decrepitude creeps into the system to rout it at once with Bull's Sarsaparilla. It makes the old feel young, and the young feel buoyant. An active old lady said she "couldn't keep up long when her bottle of Bull's Sarsaparilla got empty." It's a good thing for old people. Everyone, young or old, should counteract the evil effects of nervousness, weakness, and debility by a use of Bull's Sarsaparilla. It keeps the system in fine condition. You will sleep better,

DO YOU

Ephraim Burnet, Smithland, Ky., writes: "I am an old man, eighty-three years of age, yet I can walk five miles to town and back, and feel none the worse for it. Every spring I take a dozen or fifteen bottles of Bull's Sarsaparilla. It puts my system in fine condition, and I feel good and agile the whole year through. It has worked some great cures in my neighborhood. A Mr. Bonaldi's wife lay bed-ridden for three years. Doctors did her no good. I got her husband to try Bull's Sarsaparilla. Now
